“As a more complex organisation, we need the expert help that Artaius can provide, and also benefit from having experts on hand as needed.”

Westminster Small and Minority Business Council (WSMBC) links large organisations to micro businesses based in Westminster.

WSMBC has worked with Artaius since its inception in 2006 – in fact the inspiration for WSMBC came from Councillor Ian Wilder (now sadly deceased), founder of Wilder Coe, when he witnessed Houston’s Minority Business Council and wanted to bring the same support to businesses in Westminster.

Artaius takes care of the VAT returns and quarterly management accounts, as well as helping WSMBC with its Annual General Meeting (AGM) and the company secretarial side of things. WSMBC also outsources its complete back office system to Artaius, which makes running the organisation much easier.

“Simplifying our operations is very important to a small organisation like ours,” explains WSMBC chief executive Nigel Stokes.

“The service Artaius provides is very useful if you want to outsource your back office for a small fee and get advice as required. It is also important for organisations which have a large number of stakeholders and need to make sure the principal things, such as preparing the accounts and organising the AGM, are done properly.

“As a more complex organisation, we need the expert help that Artaius can provide, and also benefit from having experts on hand as needed.”
